Medieval Banquet

That is the way of the world,
The apple falls from the tree,
That the eagle shall be the prey,
And the serpent shall bite the man
That treadeth upon the neck,
And treadeth upon the neck,
That the sweet shall eat the bitter,
For what valdys and pithy here,
But falsche that ateneth and wyloweth,
Even in a minute! So fard that age of the
that it aine is not fantastical

Greetings to the Class of 2002!

It was in your final academic year that the Western World was exposed to the wider reality of terrorism. I will never forget walking to the platform of the chapel that morning of September 11th to lead in the convocation. Tyndale's opening full chapel.

The expression on your faces told me that you were aware of the attacks taking place in the United States. As I stood to open the chapel I wondered what I might say, indeed what was there to say?

Then it became clear: we were where we should be, preparing to go into the world, equipped to deal with the realities of a fallen world. In a post modern world where the very ideas of moral fallowness and evil have been discarded, to understand that it is only the power of Jesus Christ which can meet the debilitating realities of sin is indeed a gift.

A nationally syndicated political writer some weeks after the 11th, noted that the events of that day pointed out to him something he was embarrassed to have to admit, that he had made a mistake in discounting the notion of moral evil. It was now so obvious.

Class of 2002, I believe as you move down the road of God's leading and your choosing you will treasure the years spent at Tyndale. While you have learned much about yourself, God's Word, the working of the spirit in ministry and the wider disciplines of academia, you have been trained within a framework that will serve you well.

That framework, often called a "Christian worldview," makes it clear that nothing in life is outside the concern of our God. The terrorist attacks of this past year - while an experience many in other parts of the world know only too well - remind us that our world is caught in a stranglehold of hatred and self-interest. We know that, but it becomes more obvious when such events take place on our doorstep.

As you move into vocation or onto the next level of education, let your mind be caught not by the inevitable narcissism of your culture but by the stunning plan of our risen Lord. The Apostle Paul put it this way:

No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. For I am convinced that neither death nor demons, neither the present nor the future, nor any powers, neither height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord. (Romans 8:37-39)

Many things, our times, our decisions, our associates and even our date of graduation mark our lives. But above all these things, may your life be marked by an understanding that in you, the Christ of history lives, moving you out into the world as His expression of life and truth.

Congratulations! Go with God.

Laura cries after working till 3am on layouts. Al and Melisa react very differently to the same picture. (Lortie..if you're frightened, touch the panther!)

Janette looks tired - you'd never know it's 2:30 in the morning. Al is a master "cropper." Melisa takes Cindy hostage after too much time spent working on the yearbook. Our group that did the final 32 pages of copy.

Al figures out the crop (over 1000). Melisa smiles, Janette finishes off all 1000 pages.
